1. Course Overview

The Occupational Certificate: Marketing Coordinator (SAQA ID 118706, NQF Level 5, 175 Credits) is a nationally recognised qualification developed by the Services SETA under the Occupational Qualifications Sub-framework (OQSF). This qualification prepares learners to perform the role of a Marketing Coordinator, providing essential support to marketing teams through the coordination of administrative, communication, and campaign-related tasks.

Marketing Coordinators play a critical role in ensuring that organisations achieve their strategic marketing and business objectives. Learners will gain comprehensive knowledge and practical experience in coordinating marketing activities, supporting promotional campaigns, managing customer relationships, and performing essential administrative functions within a marketing environment.

2. Learning Outcomes

On completion of this programme, learners will be able to:

- Applying business and marketing principles to coordinate marketing activities.
- Supporting communication and promotional deliverables across various media channels.
- Coordinating sales and marketing initiatives across the marketing mix.
- Managing Customer Relationship Management (CRM) activities and processes.
- Undertaking administrative tasks related to marketing performance metrics and financial processes.
- Contributing to lead generation and customer engagement initiatives in support of marketing campaigns.

3. A Qualified Learner Will Be Able To:

- Coordinate key deliverables of products and services to specific target markets.
- Support and execute deliverables across the full spectrum of communication channels.
- Coordinate and track marketing and sales activities in alignment with organisational objectives.
- Coordinate and maintain CRM activities, ensuring consistent customer engagement.
- Administer marketing data, reports, and payment processes accurately and efficiently.

Entry Requirements

To enrol for this qualification, learners must hold a National Senior Certificate (NQF Level 4) or an equivalent qualification.

Learners may also gain access through Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL), assessed and approved by an accredited provider or workplace as per QCTO policies. RPL may be applied for access to the qualification or to obtain credits for specific modules based on verified prior learning and experience.

4. International Comparability

The Occupational Certificate: Marketing Coordinator compares favourably with similar international qualifications in both content and structure, particularly with:

- Australia: BSB42415 - Certificate IV in Marketing and Communication, which provides knowledge-based marketing competencies but lacks defined workplace experience.
- United Kingdom: CIM Foundation Certificate in Professional Marketing (Cambridge Marketing College), which aligns closely in content and entry requirements, though without an integrated practical component.

The South African qualification distinguishes itself through its integration of knowledge, practical skills, and work experience, ensuring that learners are occupationally competent upon completion.

5. Occupational Trainer – NQF Level 4 Certification

This qualification is registered at NQF Level 5 on the Occupational Qualifications Sub-framework (OQSF) and is aligned with the Occupational Certificate: Marketing Coordinator standard, as quality assured by the QCTO and the Services SETA (Development Quality Partner).

Learners completing this qualification will be eligible to progress towards advanced marketing or management qualifications, or further training at the Occupational Trainer level, depending on career goals and institutional pathways.
